SUMMER LOVIN'

Braids, waves and ponies are the go-to styles for beach, barbeque and rooftop fun. —PAULA T. RENFROE

Comrows aren't just heat and humidity friendly, they're supremely regal and especially stylish on super model Jourdan Dunn.

Contrary to popular practice, braided styles should be washed at least once per week. Eden Body Works Peppermint Tea Tree Shampoo is excellent for use before, during and after cornrows as the pure peppermint oil alleviates itchy scalp and removes dirt and oily residue. #DiscoverEden $9, edenbodyworks.com

Singer and actress Zendaya Coleman's got the coolest idea for this weather—sweeping waves off her face and letting her beautiful strands cascade down her back.

#NeverShampooYourCurls—Again with DevaCurl Kit For All Curl Kind. The four-piece set includes a No-Poo, that cleanses hair of dirt and buildup minus the lather and sulfates; One Condition, a daily conditioner that reduces frizz; Light Defining Gel, a curl shaper and Styling Cream which elongates tendrils while nourishing them. $30, devacurl.com

Beyoncé's sexy high ponytail took years off the youthful Queen Bee and is courtesy of Brooklyn's own (by way of Trinidad) pro stylist Neal Farinah of The Neal Farinah Salon.

Edge gels and pomades are without a doubt important to achieving a sleek pony, but just as crucial is a reliable hairspray. Try Suave Professionals Luxe Style Infusion Anti-Humidity Hairspray. Its ultra-fine mist keeps the frizzies at bay for up to 72 hours. $5, mass retailers

Selma director Ava DuVernay's locs always look spectacular whether they're cascading down her back or tucked regally in an updo.

Tessa Thompson is one of our favorite curtfriends! She understands the versatility of natural strands rocking her tendrils curly, wavy and straight.
